FISH AND THE MOON

Opinions as to the Best Time to Pick Suckers and Such.

DARK NIGHTS ARE THE BEST

A Similar Bellef Prevails Regarding Deer Hunting. But the Theory Doesn't Go in Many Quarters.

MISSOULA, July 29.—There is a super-stition among the half breed and Indian hunters that fish cannot be caught when n is bright. They deny emphatically that it is a superstition and assert that there is excellent foundation for their selief. They say that during the bright season of the moon the fish feed at night and will not rise for a fly during the daytime. But when the nights are dark, the fish are foraging in daylight and then is the time to catch them. This theory is ted by many fishermen who have ssful this month in their sport, but is scoffed at by those who have made big catches. A similar belief prevails regarding deer hunting, the theory being that deer feed at night when there is moonlight and seek retired places to sleep during the day. This supposition, too, has its strong supporters and many old time hunters have told the STANDARD reporter that it is not easy to kill deer when there is a bright moon, unless night bunting is resorted to. There are many skeptics, however, regarding this state-ment, and some hunters of experience deny that there is any truth in the state-

E. P. SUYDAM'S IMPRESSIONS. He Is Loud in His Praises of British

Columbia's Mines. MISSOULA, July 29.—Among the passen gers on yesterday's east bound train was E. P. Suydam, a mining man from Wash-ington, who was bound for Butte, having with him some ore specimens that are said to be unusually good. Mr. Suydam has just returned from a tour of the Boundary creek country in Washington and there collected the specimens which he has with him. He is very much interested in this new district and is enthusi-astic over the prospects of this country, which he believes is destined to be one of the great mining sections of the North-Mr. Suydam gave an interesting account of his trip and described the great wealth of the new district. "The copper pros-pects are unusually fine," said Mr. Suy-dam, "and I know of no district that gives promise of greater wealth than Boundary creek. The Deadwood, Green-wood and Summit camps can show ledges that range from 10 to 40 and 50 feet is gold and in White's camp gold mixed with high grade silver, the ledges varying from six inches to 18 feet in width. Then there is the Skylask 'In Atwood's and Douglas camps there there is the Skylark group of silver and gold, including the Skylark mine, which is now shipping ore.

"A new camp has now been located been the Skylark and Boundary Falls. The principal properties are the Helen and Capital Prize. An assay by Lanius of Spokane, shows 84 ounces of silver and $60.00 in gold. Walters' assay shows 82 ounces of silver and $208 in gold, and Gibbs of Boundary, reports 112 ounces of silver and $244 in gold. All of these are from the Helen. A surface sample from the Capital Prize shows 621/2 ounces of silver and $38.52 in gold.

"A test of 75 assays from all parts of the district, leaving out some of the highest grade samples, has been made by Assayer Gibbs of Bounday. The average was $15.43 in gold, besides silver and

AS TO WOOL.

The Tariff Discussion Has Had a Marvellous Effect.

Missoula, July 29.—A prominent Grass Valley ranchman who has just returned from the Teton country, where he has extensive sheep interests said the other night that the effect of the attempted tariff legislation upon the wool industry is marvellous. When he reached his headquarters in Teton county, he attempted to dispose of some of his wethers and his wool clip. The best price that was offered was $1 per head and for the wool, 10 cents. Soon after this came the information the disagreement in congress and the probable continuance of the present tariff nditions. He immediately received an offer of $2.50 for the sheep and wool rose several points. The sheep men are naturally deeply interested in the action of congress and every vote is watched with feverish anxiety as it means prosperity or ruin to them. "I do not know," said the gentleman in conclusion, "whother prices have dropped again now that there is some prospect of an agreement between the warring factions, but I think likely that they have."

MISSOULA IN A SOCIAL WAY.

MISSOULA, July 29.-Among the pleasant social events of last week, the Library party given by the ladies of Fort Missoula must hold first rank. It was a novel and altogether delightful party, and one which will be long remembered by the parti-cipants. Upon a blackboard in the post hall were the names of a list of books, each of which was represented by a young lady. The gentlemen dancers called upon the librarians for one of the books, making application upon a card which gave the name of the book seeker and the volume sought. The librarians then probook and the dance went on. Mesdames Andrews, Devol and Crosby made efficient librarians and promulgated an excellent set of rules, one of which imposed a fine upon any gentleman who retained his book longer than a specified time. Nearly every one of the gallants fell victim to this fine, and the penalties imposed furnished no little amusement. The list of books and the young ladies who assumed the characters were: Madcap Violet, Miss Robinson; Bow of Orange Ribbon, Miss Beckwith; Cherry Ripe, Miss Bonner; Mother Goose, Miss Straughn; Not Like Other Girls, Miss Brimson; An Old Fushioned Girl, Miss McKibbin; Bootle's Baby. Mrs. Graham; Queen Money. Around Florence Stati

Missoula, July 29.—Around Florence station on the Bitter Root branch, the traveler will notice an extensive growth of mullein on both sides of the track. There has been considerable speculation as to the origin of this plant at this place, as it is not native to this section. It has grown well, however, and its extent has constantly increased during the past three years. Judge Woody, in speaking of this subject the other day to a STANDARD reporter offered what seems to be a reasonable explanation of the growth of the mullein so far from its native soil. He said that several years ago when the sawmills were operating in that portion of the valley feed became very scarce and, to keep their horses alive, the mill men imported large quantities East. It is probable that some of these oats contained mullein seed, which was in this way sown in the valley, where it has flourished

pecial Correspondence of the Standard BOZEMAN, July 29 .- The republicans of Gallatin county at their primaries last night elected the following delegates to the county convention, which convenes Aug. 1:

East Bozeman-Elias Story, S. W. Cook, William Nevitt, Charles Pietch, Ed L. Stowe, H. S. Webb, J. V. Bogert, William Alward and Mr. Bailey. South Bozeman-H. P. McNaughton, W. W. Alderson, W. M. Lafley, W. S. Cook,

P. T. Morris, M. Langohr, Sam Fowler. In this precinct Daniel Maxey and Phil Dodson were tied for place.

West Bozeman—Nelson Story, E. F. Kidd, F. L. Benepe, John C. Chapman and D. W. McKenzie. There seemed to be more interest taken in the caucuses this year than ever be-fore. There are several candidates among the republicans for each important office and the friends of each one of those aspir-ing for republican nomination were out in full force last night at the polls. The vote of each precinct is said to have been much larger than ever before in Boze-man.

JERUSALEM TRODDEN DOWN. Path of Ruin Made Through the

Model of the Sacred City. OCEAN GROVE, N. J., July 29.—Jerusalem has been defiled. That is why Ocean Grove is hot with indignation and the beauty of the new auditoriam is not sufficient to distract the attention of Dr. okes, Wistor Stokes, Messrs. Brown, Evans and other members of the Ocean Grove association from the sacrilege, the indignity put upon the pet jewel of the reort—the model of Jerusale

The Auditorium had closed at 10 o'clock whistle had cleared Wesley lake of boats and Ocean Grove was sinking into slumber, preparatory to the opening services

Immediately facing the new Auditor-lum, and flanked on one side by the Young People's Temple and a row of tents on the other, stands the model of Jerusalem about 25 feet in diameter. It is a facsimile of the city as it appears to-day.

Near by is the Saratoga fountain, where patrons are allowed to quaff all that they can master for five cents. Everything was still, only stray lovers were seen tripping homeward along Pilgrim's pathway and Ocean pathway. In front of the tents sat several old men indulging in a farewell smoke, preparatory to retiring. Suddenly their attention was attracted by the staggering gait of a man in a white flannel suit, whose erratic course led toward Jerusalem. He steered carefully by the Saratoga beverage outfit, and then, deliberately stepping over the small barrier, he began to plow through the miniature Jerusalem. It was "rocky" traveling, and as his feet slipped upon the rounded domes of mosques or the sharp minarets, he uttered language which shocked the ears of the smokers. The latter were palsied for a few moments, and then arousing themselves, they ran toward the model of Solomon's former

"Hi, there! I say; get out of there!" was the cry that smote the ears of the modern Gulliver in the Liliputian city.

A withering reply came back as the traveler in white flannels tripped over the monastery near the Garden of Gethsemane and crushed several sponge trees in the e garden. "Police! police!" yelled the indignant bservers, and then the iconoclast roused himself and fled between the rows of tents back of the Auditorium. By the time the olitary policeman who guards that locality had appeared, the vandal was lost in the shadows, but the trail of his dastardly trip through Jerusalem was visible with appall-

It was with horror that Wistor Stokes. the janitor, received the tidings the next morning. Living pictures in the Young People's Temple could hardle have startled him or caused more indignation. With trembling limbs he hunted up Dr. Stokes and Treasurer Brown, and the trio approached the scene with faltering

It was accepted as the irresponsible act of a drunken man, and no attempt was being made to search out or arrest the white-flanneled tourist.

The model of Jerusalem has for more than a decade been one of Ocean Grove's star attractions, and has remained nearly perfect since its presentation to the association. It is covered with a circular roof. ciation. It is covered with a circular roof, surmounted by a mosquelike dome, and is open at the sides, the whole plan being circular in shape. The model is utilized as an object lesson for Sunday school workers, and once a week Professor Ven Klingenstein or some other Biblican scholar gathers several hundred enthus-asts under the roof and points out the lo-
